

You didn't evolve from an ape.

Evolution has always been a theory. Evolution still is a theory. Evolution will always be a theory. And a lousy one at that.

The genesis of the Creation Coalition of CT began in late 1999 when the Lord led Drew Crandall to script and buy prime-time ads during Christmas week on WTIC-AM1080 News/Talk Radio in Hartford. Why? To inspire and encourage Christians to think about exporting their faith into everyday work lives as they celebrated the birth of Christ, entered the new year and the new millennium. One person who responded to the radio ad was a local business owner, Russell Stone with Scranton Financial Group. The two men met, and Russ shared his passion for creation science. Under the auspices of Northeast Christians At Work, a 501c3 not-for-profit ministry in Vernon led by Crandall, the two men collaborated with Institute for Creation Research to bring ICR's "Back to Genesis" seminar to First Cathedral in Bloomfield in September of 2000. The conference was well attended, and revealed to Drew and Russ that there was a significant undercurrent of interest in creation science in Connecticut's largely secular culture.

Since 2000, the Creation Coalition of CT has hosted or assisted with about 25 creation science events at churches and school auditoriums in Connecticut. We've had displays at various events, built a statewide e-community through our website and e-news, coordinated media interviews, placed creation ads in local media, and given away thousands of free information sheets, posters, booklets and DVDs that point souls to a creation worldview. By God's grace, we've done this as a grassroots movement with no paid staff or overhead. Our events have been free or at nominal cost.

Please pray for us, visit CreationCT.com, sign up for our e-news, promote and participate in upcoming events!
